That's one way to cheer up this never-ending-getting-colder-by-the-day winter! Head out to the Magners International comedy festival. It's back in Glasgow from March 11th to Sunday, March 28th with more than 350 shows to choose from.

The Festival is not just in the evenings! A Play and a Pint will be featuring comedy shows every day at 1pm.

If you're watching your budget, no worry. The Festival has partnered up with Culture and Sport Glasgow to bring three of the top comedians to Barmulloch Community Centre. At £3 each, the tickets are a steal! A great opportunity to go out for everyone.

For a chance to win tickets to see Tiernan Douieb and Wendy Wason absolutely free, take a look at the website. Wendy is witty and funny. Her quirky sense of humour will guarantee an evening of laughter and totally non politically correct jokes!

The Comedy Festival isn't just about comedy shows. There are plenty of movies to see at Cineworld Renfrew Street, Gilmorehillg12 and Grosvenor cinemas.

Glasgow will host the Scottish premiere screening of Kick-Ass and its celebrity stars McLovin, Christopher Mintz-Plasse, Aaron Johnson and

Kick-Ass creator, Glaswegian Mark Millar to Cineworld on Wednesday 24th

March.

The children won't feel left out, there are lots of opportunities for them to enjoy the Festival too. From Jongo the Clown, to the Red puppet workshop, a light and shadow puppet workshop and Mr Punch, there is something for children of all ages.
